

REGENT BUSINESS SCHOOL

Hosts an Eight Part Seminar Series in Sustainability

Critical Conversations as a Catalyst for Sustainability

THE GLOBAL GOALS
For Sustainable Development

The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) offer an inspiring and inclusive vision of the future: a world free from poverty, injustice and discrimination and a healthy planet for present and future generations. It is a vision that requires a global partnership of nations and peoples – from the poorest communities to the richest countries – and it is a vision that demands unprecedented changes in both thinking and behaviour. It is a universal vision that applies to all countries and to all sectors of society. It also assumes a substantial contribution from business – and perhaps to a greater extent than has been officially acknowledged. As the SDGs move from pledges to practice, a much wider and better-informed debate is needed around how and in what circumstances business can add the most value.

Commencing: Wednesday, 22 March 2017
Time: 17h30 for 18h00
Venue: Main Auditorium – Institute of Entrepreneurship – REGENT Business School
Dress: Smart Casual

 All REGENT Business School's Post Graduate Students are encouraged to attend
